Buzzard Project

KHI Role:

The Buzzard oil field is the largest field to be discovered in the North Sea in the past decade.

Scope of Work:

Buzzard's total recoverable reserves are estimated at more than 400 million barrels of oil and gross production is expected to reach a plateau of 180,000 to 190,000 barrels of oil per day in 2007.

Both Encana and Nexen have awarded contracts to KHI to provide engineering assistance to Heerema. This has involved detailed engineering design and subsequent documentation deliverables from their PDMS 3-D model.
